The Use of the Lemon.

Lemons are a most valuable fruit, not only for cooking, but also for medical purposes and the toilet. If the juice of lemon is taken every morning before breakfast for two or three weeks in the springtime, it will prevent the disagreeable feeling of weakness and want of energy peculiar to the season. Lemon juice made thick with sugar and a little salt, will relieve hoarseness and heal a hacking cough. A piece of lemon peel, with pulp attached, if bound upon a corn, will relieve it in a few days. It is also an excellent remedy for chills and fever, and if a teaspoonful of sugar and a large pinch of salt is stirred up with the pulp and eaten with a spoon every morning, it will break malarial trouble. As a cosmetic it is of great service in removing freckles and sunburn. Apply the pulp and juice at night to the face and hands and wash off with water in the morning. It is also valuable for its power to detect any dangerous ingredient in cosmetics, powders or liquids. Place a teaspoonful of the cosmetic in a wineglass and squeeze some lemon juice upon it, if it effervesces it is a sure proof that the cosmetic is dangerous and would utterly ruin the complexion. For small-pox lemon juice is also highly recommended, the patient being allowed to drink freely of lemonade, and to such the clear juice is palatable. In all fevers the juice of lemons is of decided assistance.
